

Questions to think about:

What is the world setting/era we want? (Medieval, Future, Modern, etc)

What is the main character's (MC) role through this whole story?

How does the MC fit into our world?

What motivates the antagonist?

What motivates the protagonist?

What skills do we want the MC to have?

What kind of allies and how many allies will the MC have?

The first section are ideas I believe we all agreed on. I put some of my own ideas in here. Feel free to add any ideas here. I think we can all just put our ideas in here, and then build a story from there.

3 princesses – Fire, Light, Dark

First time in generations 3 girls were born

Parents transcend into their higher place, leaving the kingdom without a ruler

The next ruler will be from the 3 princesses, chosen by the Elder.

Humans and creatures will be the races for now

.....

Ideas

Joshua Crandall:

Civil War, rebellion against the Elder's pick. Our hero defends the Elder and his pick. Plot twist, the Elder intentionally picked the wrong princess for reasons.... They fight the Elder in the end, he gets replaced by a new Elder. Just some thoughts from me.

Stephen R:

The main character is a farmer's boy and while he is working outside he passes out and when he is awakes he it at a coronation where one of the princesses get taken away thought to be killed. That night he dreams that the captured princess is in a graveyard trapped in a cell of water and earth. He can tell that she is still alive. He has to do something about it so he goes to the castle and talks with one of the princesses. They go together with her body guard to find and rescue the trapped princess.

I think that the trapped princess is the light. The evil sister wants to rule and is behind everything and the one of the fire goes on the adventure. I also think that the one sister that gets taken should die that will make the story more believable/dramatic. The event that her sister dies unlocks the fire's sister to a greater level of magic.

The word magic is dumb, I was thinking of calling them "weaver" and they can control matter which is in the form of strings. (String Theory) lol.

What do you guys think?

Main Character

- Has magical ability as a 'Seer'. Ability allows him to see past, present and future. This ability starts out weak, so he can only see the past. As he gains control and uses it, the ability will grow and will expand into present then into future.
- Will have the ability to summon fire (fire sprites?)
- He is the only one that actually knows the kidnapped Princess is alive... But why does this motivate him to go on an adventure to save her?
- Need an origin story.
- Abandoned at birth, found by a local farmer and his wife who take him in as their own. He is raised as a farmer making his body very toned. Also gives him a very regimented personality.

Story

MC Allies

Magic System

Gameplay: magic spells are cast by swiping finger movements/motions.

More powerful versions of spells use more complex symbols that build upon the basic symbol.

World

3 princesses – Fire, Light, Dark

- Does being dark inherently make you evil?

First time in generations 3 girls were born

Parents transcend into their higher place, leaving the kingdom without a ruler

The next ruler will be from the 3 princesses, chosen by the Elder.

Humans and creatures will be the races for now

Antagonist